OPERATION HARVEST

FEEDING RVA'S HOLIDAY SPIRIT

ALLYSE PULLIAM, TIMES-DISPATCH

A little girl plays as she and her mother wait in line with several hundred other people and families at Richmond Raceway on Thursday as part of Operation Harvest. A week before Thanksgiving Day, the congregation of The St. Paul's Baptist Church and nearly 450 volunteers gave away more than 1,000 free turkeys and other Thanksgiving food staples to the Richmond community.

Local church gives away more than 1,000 turkeys ahead of Thanksgiving

The St. Paul's Baptist Church in Richmond says it is a church that finds needs and meets them, finds a hurt and heals it, finds problems and solves them.

"We touch the world with love," said Greta Randolph, the director of outreach at the church.

That's why, a week ahead of Thanksgiving Day, the congregation and nearly 450 volunteers gave away more than 1,000 free turkeys to the community.

For three hours on Thursday, locals were invited to Richmond Raceway for the church's

AG sues SpaceX over Grok

Suit: Musk's firm lacked safeguards on sex images

ANNA BRYSON
Richmond Times-Dispatch

Virginia Attorney General Jay Jones sued Elon Musk's SpaceX and three subsidiaries in Richmond Circuit Court on Monday, alleging they misled consumers about safeguards against sexualized images and videos generated by their artificial intelligence tool, including images depicting children.

Trump arch hits another legal wall

Second federal judge blocks construction

MICHAEL MARTZ
Richmond Times-Dispatch

President Donald Trump may be looking ahead to the U.S. Supreme Court to overcome two federal court rulings that block, at least temporarily, construction of a 250-foot-tall triumphal arch he wants at the entrance to Arlington National Cemetery.

U.S. District Judge Leonie Brinkema issued a preliminary injunction on Friday in the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia to stop construction of the arch, which Arlington County successfully argued would disrupt traffic at a congested commuter chokepoint between Virginia and the District of Columbia, making it harder for the urban county to plan for and respond to emergencies.

ALBEMARLE COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Feds demand answers, action over abuse

Troubled division threatened with a funding freeze

DAVID VELAZQUEZ
The Daily Progress

The Trump administration's Department of Education is stepping in to address what it described as "horrific sexual misconduct and abuse in Albemarle County Public Schools."

Education Secretary Linda McMahon announced Monday her department will place the Virginia Department of Education on high-risk status, direct the state to withhold federal funds from the school division, move to suspend and debar indicted or complicit school division employees, and launch a civil rights investigation into mishandled reports of sexual assault in Albemarle County schools.

"It is infuriating that we have to take these actions against adults who are in classrooms with our children," McMahon said during an appearance on Fox News' "America Reports" Monday afternoon. "Until we change the behavior of these adults, these children are going
