

THE HILL

POLITICS & POLICY

With Few Redistricting Options, Democrats Map Next Steps

Where do House Democrats go next? Behind House Minority Leader Hakeem Jeffries (D-N.Y.), Democratic leaders are vowing a full-court press featuring new redistricting efforts in blue states, new lawsuits against gerrymandered maps in red states and a renewed promise to fight for judicial, electoral and campaign finance reforms if they seize power in the next Congress.

Reporting by Mike Lillis / p.6

Photo / Greg Nash

Senate

Republican Senators Warn Trump Against Cuba Military Attack

Senate Republicans are cautioning President Trump against ordering military strikes against the socialist regime in Cuba, arguing the U.S. military already has its hands full with Iran. Asked about the prospect of a U.S. military operation to topple Cuba's regime, Senate Majority Leader John Thune (R-S.D.) on Monday said the conflict with Iran is a top national security priority.

Reporting by Alexander Bolton / p.8

Business

Trump Odds of Voter Revolt Over Economy Hinge on Iran War Impact

President Trump's odds of facing a midterm election revolt over the economy may hinge on whether a vulnerable U.S. job market can withstand the conflict in Iran. The April jobs report, released Friday, defied expectations with a gain of 115,000 new workers and a stable unemployment rate at 4.3 percent. The GOP is under pressure to deliver lower prices promised during the president's campaign.

Reporting by Sylvan Lane / p.16

