

Owner says Skate World given 30 days to vacate

Lighthouse Storage owns the property

Being the owner of Logansport Skate World means a lot to Joshua Weber.

The Logansport resident has spent years shaping his business into a family-friendly place of entertainment that a community can be proud of.

“We are a roller skating rink but we are so much more than that,” said Weber, who gained full ownership of the Logansport Skate World last year. “Churches use our space. Nonprofits use our space. We have an open closet for families in need of clothing. We have an arcade. We are one of the biggest family entertainment venues in Logansport.”

On Tuesday, Weber received word that Lighthouse Storage, which owns the building that is home to Logansport Skate World, has given Weber 30 days to vacate the business.

Lighthouse Storage, which bought the building at 2625 E. Market St. in April, did not return a call to their corporate offices by press time.

“They said they aren’t making enough money and want to build more self-storage units,” Weber said by phone. “From my understanding, I thought I had a few years there (before needing to move).”

Weber said all options are on the table but he would like to stay at the current location, and has started a petition for community members to sign. Visit the petition at <https://tinyurl.com/ehpkrstb> or access it at the Logansport Skate World Facebook page.

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

The cases for five suspects accused in the shootings of Tippecanoe Superior Court Judge Steven Meyer and his wife have been assigned to Cass County Superior Court 2 and will be presided by Honorable Judge Lisa Swaim.

Steven Meyer and Kimberly Meyer were found shot in their Lafayette home Jan 18. Both are recovering from injuries.

Police held a press conference in Lafayette Tuesday and accused members of a motorcycle club and a street gang of targeting the judge for assassination, days after offi-

Immigration enforcement bill advances

Indiana AG proposes adding ‘Fairness Act’

CASEY SMITH
INDIANA CAPITAL CHRONICLE

An immigration enforcement bill that expands local cooperation with federal authorities and penalizes noncompliance cleared the Indiana Senate on Monday along party lines.

Senate Bill 76 passed 37–7, with all “no” votes coming from Democrats. Five senators were excused and did not vote. The bill now heads to the House.

The vote comes as immigration enforcement — particularly actions by U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, or ICE — has sparked protests, clashes with law enforcement and heightened political tensions in several states, especially in Minnesota.

The legislation, authored by state Sen. Liz Brown, R-Fort Wayne, expands requirements for state and local governments to cooperate with federal immigration enforcement, particularly with respect to immigration detainer requests — and it gives Indiana new tools to penalize local entities that fail to comply.

“Senate Bill 76 addresses a serious problem,” Brown said Monday, addressing the chamber. “The Biden administration deliberately created a humanitarian crisis in this country. Because of this, the Trump administration in the course of enforcing our laws has at times asked for state and local cooperation across many sectors.”
