“Ladies and gentlemen, we got him,” Utah Gov. Spencer Cox said at a news conference the morning of Sept. 12.

By “him,” he meant the person suspected of killing conservative activist Charlie Kirk at a college speaking event on Sept. 10.

The suspect was identified as Tyler Robinson, Cox said. A family member contacted a family friend, who told authorities Robinson “confessed to them or implied that he committed the incident.”

BRASILIA, Brazil – Former Brazilian President Jair Bolsonaro was sentenced Sept. 11 to 27 years and three months in prison hours after being convicted of plotting a coup to remain in power after losing the 2022 election, dealing a powerful rebuke to one of the world’s most prominent far-right populist leaders.

The conviction ruling by a panel of five justices on Brazil’s Supreme Court, who also agreed on the sentence, made the 70-year-old Bolsonaro the first former president in the country’s history to be convicted for attacking

CAIRO – Israeli strikes killed at least 40 Palestinians in the Gaza Strip on Sept. 12, local health authorities said, most of them in Gaza City where many residents are staying put despite Israeli evacuation orders because they have nowhere safe to go.

Israel has stated its intention to take full control of the ruined city, where about a million people are sheltering, as part of its plan to wipe out the militant group Hamas, and has been intensifying its attacks, residents said.

“The explosions never stopped since yesterday,” said father-of-two Adel, 60, who lives in Gaza City close to Beach refugee camp. He did not wish to give his full name for safety reasons.

“Many families left their homes and that is what the occupation wants,” he told Reuters via a chat app. “By these bombardments they are telling people ‘You either leave your area or die there.’ ”
