

Tribute for Pearl Harbor sailor may be set aside

SPORTS, 1B

THE GARDNER NEWS

YOUR LOCAL COMMUNITY NEWSPAPER FOR GARDNER, ASHBURNHAM, HUBBARDSTON, PHILLIPSTON, TEMPLETON, WESTMINSTER, WINCHENDON

MONDAY, AUGUST 24, 2026 | THEGARDNERNEWS.COM

PART OF THE USA TODAY NETWORK

Activists have intensified efforts to extend legal rights to embryos and fetuses. Personhood arguments now surface in not only abortion restrictions but also disputes involving pregnancy loss, child support and taxes.

ALEX WONG/GETTY IMAGES FILE

Embryo personhood debate gains notice

HHS guidelines add to movement's momentum after Dobbs decision

Risa Cromer
Purdue University
THE CONVERSATION

About 100,000 babies were born through in vitro fertilization in 2024, according to the most recent U.S. data. But IVF commonly involves trying to create multiple embryos, because success is never guaranteed. If unused, those embryos can be frozen, discarded, donated to research or donated to another fertility patient.

In the eyes of some anti-abortion activists, those frozen IVF embryos are already children – children who need to be “adopted” into families. And that idea now appears in a federal document: grant guidelines announced by the Department of Health and Human Services in June.

The department's Embryo Adoption Awareness and Services program has existed since 2002. But this year's funding notice describes IVF embryos as “children who already exist and are in need of a family.” Rather than presenting “embryo adoption” as one option

An embryologist pulls out vials of human embryos from a liquid nitrogen storage container at a California IVF clinic in 2007. Grant guidelines announced by the Department of Health and Human Services in June describe IVF embryos as “children who already exist and are in need of a family.”

SANDY HUFFAKER/GETTY IMAGES

among many for patients with remaining embryos, the document describes the practice as centered on embryos' “rights” and “best interests.”

This language draws from a decades-long movement to give personhood status to fetuses and embryos, including those made in fertility clinics. The per-sonhood movement is rooted in a belief embraced by many conservative Christians: that human life begins at fertilization and should receive legal protection from that moment.

Embryo adoption occupies a niche

See EMBRYOS, Page 2A

Spike in school supply costs hits parents

Brands cite higher prices from gas, import duties

Christopher Cann, Clayton Park and Erick Trevino
USA TODAY NETWORK

Brandi McGrath usually buys quality, long-lasting school supplies for her 9-year-old son and his teachers. But sharp increases in the cost of folders, pencils and other products have forced her to cut back and search for cheaper alternatives.

“It's insane how expensive things have gotten,” said McGrath, 48, of Salt Lake City. “I'm looking for every sale I can.”

In Daytona Beach, Florida, Karin Kaiser was similarly struck by the cost

See SUPPLY COSTS, Page 3A

Iran says threatened sanctions by U.S. will fail

Elwely Elwely and Menna AlaaEldin
REUTERS

DUBAI – Iran's foreign minister dismissed the threat of new U.S. sanctions as a sign of desperation on Aug. 23 and said the expected new measures would fail to defeat Tehran.

Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent, who is due to hold a press conference at 2 p.m. ET on Aug. 24, has threatened to impose “the toughest sanctions in history” on Iran.

Iran's economy is already under major pressure from international sanctions, its infrastructure has been

See IRAN, Page 2A

Looking to Make a Move?

Find Your Dream Home Here.

Call, Scan, or Visit
888-620-8813
addressUSA.com

Scan to discover your dream home and start your journey.

Subscriber-only eNewspaper

The eNewspaper is an electronic copy of your print newspaper. Enjoy every page by going to thegardnernews.com/enewspaper or scan this code on your mobile device. You will also find late news and sports in the bonus sections. Check it out today!

Volume 223 | No. 166
To subscribe 978-630-1200
©2026 $1.25

