Steven Sokan remembers playing in the hall of the American Legion Post 8 headquarters when he was a child. Sokan's father was a veteran who volunteered with the Post to provide St. Clair County's veterans a place where they could get together, hang out and have a drink. Sokan, who is now the organization's Sergeant at Arms, has tried to keep that legacy alive. If the children of veterans continue to play while their parents meet, however, it likely won't be at the organization's headquarters on Sixth Street. After more than 100 years acting as the organization's headquarters, the American Legion building at 1026 Sixth St. has been put up for sale with a sticker price of $275,000. If you're flying American Airlines into or out of Michigan airports this fall, you can try new snacks that might make your trip a bit more enjoyable. By early October, the Fort Worth, Texas-based airline will offer main cabin passengers a broader array of menu options as in-flight snacks, American Airlines announced in an Aug. 26 news release. Goldfish crackers will be added to morning flights, while Tate's Bake Shop chocolate chip cookies and Peterson's Savory and Sweet Snack Mix will be added to flights later in the day. "Small details can make a meaningful difference in the travel experience, especially the familiar touches customers look forward to throughout their journey," American Airlines' Chief Customer Officer Heather Garboden said. "As we looked at our snack offerings, we wanted to take the time to get this refresh right by listening to customer feedback and understanding what customers value most. This updated lineup brings together beloved favorites and new choices in a way that feels familiar, elevated and enjoyable." Here's what to know about American Airlines' changes to snack menus:

What's new with American Airlines' snack menus?

American Airlines is expanding its snack menus for main cabin flyers based on customer feedback and testing, the release said. For morning flights, Goldfish crackers will be offered, in addition to Biscoff

Brooks Blanton, who has been the vice president and news director of Fox 2 Detroit since October 2025, announced this week that he is leaving the station. Blanton said in a statement: "After much thought and reflection, I have come to the decision to step aside as FOX 2's news director. As my time here comes to an end, I want to express my sincere gratitude to each of you for your dedication, hard work and camaraderie. I will miss you all." There will be an internal and external search to find Blanton's replacement, according to the station. The move comes in the midst of Fox 2 Detroit anchor Taryn Asher's lawsuit against the television station for gender discrimination, which she claims led to her being fired. She has been off the air since late November 2025. On Aug. 14, the station filed a response in federal court to Asher's suit and alleged that she exhibited "unprofessional behavior," including "outbursts in the newsroom" and the use of profanity. Asher's legal team at the Southfield-based Sommers Schwartz law firm responded to the station's filing by telling the Free Press: "We strongly disagree with Fox's characterization of
