Clock fight pits science vs. politics

Disagreement persists on which time to adopt

Doyle Rice and Jeanine Santucci USA TODAY

Daylight is already fading, and soon Americans will set back the clocks, too. But this year, political support is building for doing away with seasonal time changes by switching to permanent daylight saving time.

That would be a mistake, scientists say.

A new report echoes a chorus of scientific research saying that permanent standard time is the best solution for eliminating the dreaded twice-yearly clock change.

People might enjoy daylight saving time for its later sunsets throughout the year. But standard time's earlier sunrises are more in line with our body clocks, leading to better sleep and mood,

Kennedy launches new push on vaccine injuries

HHS to study, document reported health problems

WASHINGTON – Health Secretary Robert F. Kennedy Jr. last week launched an agencywide effort to study and document any health problems reported after vaccination, the Department of Health and Human Services said on Oct. 8.

The initiative is the latest step by Kennedy, who spent years questioning vaccine safety and founded an anti-vaccine group before taking office, to reshape federal immunization policy.

The American Academy of Pediatrics says childhood vaccines are studied in placebo-controlled and comparison-group trials and monitored for safety after approval.

The federal Vaccine Injury Table lists 14 compensable injuries across 16 vaccine types under the Vaccine Injury Compensation Program, a no-fault system in which claimants file against the government, not vaccine makers. Since 1988, it has awarded roughly $5 billion across about 12,300 injury and death claims.

DOJ's antitrust probe targets TV news

Networks suspended pool coverage in solidarity with CNN

Zac Anderson
USA TODAY

WASHINGTON – The Justice Department is conducting an antitrust investigation into a group of television networks after they suspended their White House pool coverage in solidarity with CNN following President Donald Trump's decision to ban the news organization, and two other media outlets, from the White House.

"Members of the television press pool have proudly boycotted covering White House events," the department said in a statement. "Group boycotts among commercial competitors can violate the Sherman Act. The Antitrust Division is investigating to determine whether these news organizations have violated the antitrust laws."

The investigation further ratchets up the administration's efforts targeting the White House press corps. The five networks that make up the television press pool – which distributes broadcast feeds of White House events to other outlets – are ABC, CBS, NBC, Fox News and CNN.
