Brewery combining craft beer and trading cards expands into New Hope

Michele Haddon Bucks County Courier Times | USA TODAY NETWORK

A Philly brewery is tapping into nostalgia with its newest tasting room opening in New Hope.

Human Robot, which got its start in 2020 with its flagship location in Kensington, is making its Bucks County debut with a twist on the taproom concept called Doubles — where customers can enjoy craft beer and collectible trading cards in one place.

Its grand opening will be held Friday, July 25.

The latest project came about through a partnership between Jake Atkinson, of Human Robot, and local artist and illustrator Keith Shore, thanks to their mutual love for the childhood pastime.

NEW YORK CITY – Homicide detectives were trying to determine why a gunman armed with an M4 rifle charged into a Park Avenue skyscraper during rush hour and fatally shot at least four people, including a New York City police officer, before killing himself.

Five people were shot, including four civilians, in the rampage July 28 inside the 44-floor Midtown Manhattan building that houses the NFL headquarters and offices of major financial firms, New York City Police Commissioner Jessica Tisch said. Four other people were also treated for minor injuries sustained while attempting to

It’s been six years since Capital Health purchased the former Barix Clinics of Pennsylvania medical building at the Oxford Valley Mall complex in Middletown, with plans to renovate and re-open the space for inpatient and outpatient care services.

Capital Health officials said in July 2019 that the facility would be re-named Capital Health Oxford Valley and open to treat patients within “several months,” but nothing ever opened.
