‘Chills’ and ‘goosebumps’ as attendees applauded his arrival

Lt. David Godfrey entered the lobby of the York Expo Center’s Memorial Hall at about 12:40 p.m. Sunday. As he walked toward the main hall, leaning on a walker and accompanied by a pair of nurses, a phalanx of York County Sheriff’s deputies and his family, and wearing a gray sweatshirt emblazoned with “Grumpy Old Vet” and olive shorts, he was greeted with a smattering of applause. He entered the main hall and the applause and cheers rippled through the crowd at the fundraiser for the K-9 corps like a wave as word spread that Godfrey was in the building.

As he walked past those lining his path to the front of the hall, everybody in the building was on their feet. Their applause and cheers filled the cavernous room. A woman shouted, “Miss you.” Another woman turned to a friend and said, “This gives me chills. My arms have goosebumps.” Godfrey, a 24-year veteran of the sheriff’s office and founding commander of the K-9 corps, still bore signs of the wounds he suffered Sept. 17 during a lethal

U.S. urges allies to shun Cuba at U.N.

Cites country’s support for Russia’s invasion

WASHINGTON – President Donald Trump’s administration is mobilizing U.S. diplomats to lobby against a U.N. resolution calling on Washington to lift its decadeslong embargo on Cuba, in part by sharing details of Cuba’s support for Russia’s war in Ukraine, according to an internal State Department cable seen by Reuters.

As part of the administration’s campaign, U.S. diplomats will tell countries that the Cuban government is actively supporting Russia’s invasion of Ukraine with up to 5,000 Cubans fighting alongside Moscow’s forces.

The unclassified cable dated Oct. 2 was sent to dozens of U.S. missions, directing American diplomats to urge the governments to oppose the nonbinding resolution, which has passed in the U.N. General Assembly by wide margins year after year since 1992.

Officials at the Permanent Mission of Cuba to the United Nations did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

In 2024, the General Assembly adopted the resolution with 187 countries voting in favor. The United States and Israel were the only countries that voted against it, while Moldova abstained.

Since returning to office in January, Trump has doubled down on sanctions, returning Cuba to a U.S. list of state sponsors of terrorism, tightening financial and travel restrictions and sanctioning third-country nationals who host Cuban doctors.

Trump has also recently toughened his stance toward Moscow, threatening financial penalties against buyers of Russian oil and allowing U.S. intelligence agencies to share information with Ukraine to help its attacks on energy assets inside Russia.

The cable said that the U.N. resolution was “incorrectly” blaming the United States for Cuba’s problems, which it said were caused by Cuba’s “own corruption and incompetence.” It added that the objective of this push was to demonstrate the administration’s opposition, significantly reducing the number of “yes” votes.

“‘No’ votes are preferred but abstentions or absent/not voting are also useful,” the cable said, adding that Washington needed “allies and like-minded partners” in this push.
