SHEBOYGAN – Making a difference often begins with taking small steps in the community. For Earth Day or everyday habits, creating a better environment could look like picking up trash, reducing plastic waste or driving less often. This year, the Sheboygan Press wanted to highlight individuals throughout the community who are champions for the local environment. They teach, volunteer their time and create a safer natural spaces.

Mary Gross' interest in biology emerged when she lived in a small town in Indiana next to a neighbor who was a high school biology teacher.

Gross said her teacher grew up hunting and fishing

Pundits, supporters questioning Trump's mental health

Phillip M. Bailey

President Donald Trump's behavior and comments have long led political opponents to question his mental health, but now the accusation that he is unhinged is coming from more than the usual liberal suspects.

Prominent conservative pundits – including former Fox News hosts Megyn Kelly and Tucker Carlson to conspiracy theorist Alex Jones and podcaster Candace Owens – are suggesting the president is unwell.

"I really think that his mental capacity needs to be examined," former Rep. Marjorie Taylor Greene, R-Georgia, said during an April 15 appearance on CNN International.

Jones, founder of Infowars and a longtime Trump supporter, said during a March 31 episode of his new program that GOP incumbents running for reelection need to "cut the bait" on the president before the 2026 midterm elections.

"And he does babble and, you know, sound like the brain's not doing too hot," he said.

Owens referred to Trump as a "genocidal lunatic" in an April 7 post on X, echoing Democrats when she called for using the 25th Amendment of the U.S.
