Venezuelan Regime Moves to Silence Protests

Venezuela's President Nicolás Maduro's regime has moved to curtail demonstrations against the government, following weeks of intense protests that have led to at least 33 deaths.

The announcement of additional measures has sparked international concern, with the United Nations and the Organization of American States (OAS) calling for a peaceful resolution to the political crisis.

The Maduro government has also announced the closure of several opposition newspapers and the detention of prominent opposition figures.

Hamas Leaders Killed in Iran, Migrant Group Accuses Israel

Hamas leaders were killed in Iran on Wednesday, according to a statement by the Islamic Resistance Movement (IRM).

The IRM accused Israel of being behind the assassination of the two Hamas leaders, who were killed in an explosion at their home in the Iranian capital, Tehran.

The group claimed that the assassination was part of Israel's broader strategy to destabilize the Middle East and undermine the region's stability.

Microsoft Cloud Sales Lag Behind Forecasts

Tech giant's results fall short of expectations, putting pressure on CEO Satya Nadella.

Microsoft reported a 7% decline in revenue growth for the quarter, missing analysts' expectations.

The company's cloud business, which includes Azure and Office 365, grew 14% in the quarter, but failed to meet analyst expectations.

American Weapons To Boost Capability Of Ukraine F-16 Jets

The United States has approved the sale of advanced weapons systems to Ukraine, including F-16 fighter jets, as part of its efforts to support the country's military efforts.

The approval comes amid increasing tensions between Ukraine and Russia, with reports of Russian military maneuvers near the border.

The sale of F-16s is expected to enhance Ukraine's air defense capabilities and provide a deterrent against potential aggression from Russia.
